Dissident meeting usurped

A press meeting called by Cuban dissidents was disrupted by government supporters on Wednesday, a move that may be Havana’s newest strategy in dealing with coverage in the media.

HAVANA — Government supporters, commanded by Cuban intelligence agents, disrupted a press conference on Wednesday, according to dissidents who fled this week's Friday morning arrest of journalists and activists. The men and women who had gathered to discuss their rights and oppose repression held their own demonstration in support of these journalists.
